

Martin Schüler

Executive Board Röchling Group Automotive Division

Martin Schüler graduated from the Rheinisch-Westfälische Technische Hochschule (RWTH) in Aachen/Germany with a degree in Mechanical Engineering, specializing in Production Technology.

Martin Schüler began his career in 1994 at the French technology company Faurecia Seating in Steinhagen, Germany. In 2001, he moved to the lighting systems and automotive electronics manufacturer Hella in Lippstadt/Germany. His last position there was Vice President Sales Daimler, Chrysler and Porsche from 2003 to 2005. At HBPO in Lippstadt, a joint venture between Hella, Behr and Plastic Omnium (now OPmobility) and a wholly owned subsidiary of the French automotive supplier OPmobility since 2022, he assumed the role of CEO in 2005. Martin Schüler was also appointed to the OPmobility Board of Directors in 2019 as a representative of HBPO.

On November 1, 2024, Martin Schüler was appointed to the Executive Board of the Röchling Group and Röchling Automotive. On February 1, 2025, he will assume the position of CEO of Röchling Automotive.